

POSITIVE DISINTEGRATION

“Dąbrowski’s theory is not only interesting but even exciting in its breadth and depth of its implications. The ubiquity of psychological symptoms has always confounded a simple descriptive psychopathological approach to mental illness. Dąbrowski’s theory gives these symptoms a role in normal personality development that is consistent with their broad distribution as shown by epidemiological studies and as felt by those aware of the problems in themselves and in those around them.”

~ Jason Aronson, Harvard Medical School

MENTAL GROWTH THROUGH POSITIVE DISINTEGRATION

“I consider this to be one of the most important contributions to psycho- logical and psychiatric theory in this whole decade. There is little question in my mind that this book will be read for another decade or two, and very widely. It digs very deep and comes up with extremely important conclusions that will certainly change the course of psychological theorizing and the practice of psychotherapy for some time to come.”

~ Abraham H. Maslow, Brandeis University

PERSONALITY SHAPING THROUGH POSITIVE DISINTEGRATION

“Dr. Kazimierz Dąbrowski is no ordinary psychiatrist. Although educated as a physician, he has developed a conception of man and his ‘existential’ vagaries which radically transcends the physical and biological realms; and although later trained in Freudian psychoanalysis, he has a point of view which, instead of denigrating morality and idealism, puts them in a place of supreme importance.

Dr. Dąbrowski has certainly been a pioneer in the development of the kind of psychiatry that is set forth in this book, and he deserves great credit for his originality and courage. But, at the same time there is nothing singular or eccentric about his particular orientation. It is, in fact, part and parcel of a widespread and growing perspective in clinical psychology and psychiatry which can only be described as revolutionary.”

~ O. Hobart Mowrer, University of Illinois

We wish to thank Bill Tillier for maintaining his promise to keep the theory of positive disintegration alive. Bill has been tenacious and tireless in all his activities related to the theory including, but not limited to, the development of the English website, research, publications, correspondence and active involvement in meetings and conferences. We are especially grateful for Bill's dedication to the word, the intent, the integrity and the soul of the theory.
